WELCOME

to Hilton Head Island

Hilton Head Island isn't just a place you visit once, it's a place many choose to return to again and again.

Families often talk about making memories here – some for decades – with family and friends. It's that indelible mark of unforgettable moments and the warm embrace of Southern hospitality that transforms a visit into a tradition.

In today's busy world, it's more important than ever to relax and reconnect. The ocean has a way of helping you unwind unlike any other experience. Miles of unspoiled coastline await you, providing the perfect backdrop for relaxation and rejuvenation.

Spending time on the beach, you might catch a glimpse of Loggerhead turtles embarking on their journey to the ocean or watch dolphins gracefully navigating the waves.

Meandering through our miles of leisure trails on foot or by bike is the perfect anecdote to a busy life. We take great pride in preserving the natural beauty that makes Hilton Head Island a haven for residents and visitors alike.

We're proud and protective of the environment in which we live and encourage our island guests to leave nothing but their footprints on the sand. The island is home to some of the most pristine beaches in the country, and respect for the environment is a value shared by those who live here and those who visit.

Want to know where the locals go? Just ask. Locals are proud to share their island and reveal the best place to catch the sunset, or where to get their favorite shrimp and oysters. Seafood caught in our local waters is a special part of island life.

Immerse yourself in the rich tapestry of Gullah culture, a vibrant and unique heritage that has shaped our island for centuries. Explore the fascinating history and traditions at Mitchelville Freedom Park, where freedom began, and at the Coastal Discovery Museum.

There's so much to experience and explore, but don't take our word for it. We've been chosen as the #1 Island in America for the last seven years by the readers of Condé Nast Traveler. We're consistently named among the best beaches in the country and lauded for the way we cherish and protect our delicate ecosystem.

A visit to America's Favorite Island™ isn't one you'll soon forget. There's something special about this place. Come experience it for yourself.

HISTORY & HERITAGE

Hilton Head Island's natural beauty has beckoned globetrotters for centuries. Thanks to the foresight of early land planners, those same pristine vistas await today's explorers.

HISTORICAL TIMELINE OF HILTON HEAD ISLAND

NATIVE AMERICAN

2000 B.C. – 1400 A.D.

Remnants of oyster shells discarded by Native Americans can be found in present-day Sea Pines Forest Preserve and the Green's Shell Ring Enclosure Heritage Preserve.

SETTLEMENTS

1717 Hilton Head Island's first settler, "Tuscarora Jack" Barnwell, founded Point Place Plantation.

1766 Starting in the mid 1700s, West Africans were enslaved and brought to Hilton Head Island to tend rice and cotton fields. By 1766, indigo was the primary crop, and there were 25 plantations on the island.

EARLY AMERICAN

1775 – 1783

The Revolutionary War: Hilton Head Islanders sided with colonists and skirmished with the British Loyalists from nearby Daufuskie Island. Four Revolutionary War soldiers are now buried or memorialized at the Zion Cemetery.

1790 William Elliot grew the first successful crop of sea island cotton at Myrtle Bank Plantation, formerly Point Place Plantation.

1861 On April 12, the Civil War began with Confederates firing on Fort Sumter in Charleston Harbor. In November, 12,653 Union troops came ashore on Hilton Head Island.

1862 General Ormsby Mitchel set aside land for Mitchelville, America's first self-governing town of formerly enslaved people.

The Gullah Geechee saying, “we live by the land; we live by the sea” has encapsulated life on Hilton Head Island since Native Americans made their lives on the shores of South Carolina. Relying on natural resources like fresh seafood and rice and okra grown from fertile soils was the only way forward in Mitchelville, the site of America’s first self-governing community of formerly enslaved people. And when Charles Fraser took steps to develop the island in the 1950s, he, too, wanted to protect the environment. In Sea Pines, the island’s first planned community, Fraser limited development and insisted that nature take center stage. Long before the farm-to-table movement swept through restaurants around the country, Hilton Head Island natives lived off the land and sea and cherished their environment — a gift to be preserved.

Historic Mitchelville
Freedom Park

EARLY AMERICAN

1868 – 1950 When the Army left, so did the jobs for the Mitchelville citizens. Surviving through fishing and farming, Gullah people, direct descendants from enslaved people, moved from their half-acre Mitchelville lots to other parts of the island.

1889 – 1930 Tracts of land were purchased by private citizens for hunting preserves. In 1912, the Hudson and Toomer families began operating oyster factories.

MODERN AGE

1950 Lumbermen from Hinesville, Georgia, built sawmills and purchased 8,400 acres on the island to harvest the sea pines.

1950s Sea Pines, Hilton Head Island’s first planned community, was imagined by Charles Fraser. See page 22 for more information.

1956 Byrnes Bridge was the first bridge constructed to connect the island to the mainland. Hilton Head Inn opened on South Forest Beach. The island’s first grocery store opened at Coligny Plaza.

1998 Cross Island Parkway was completed.

2024 Hilton Head Island’s permanent population: 40,000. Hilton Head Island welcomed over 3 million visitors in 2022. The vacation destination continues to uphold Charles Fraser’s vision by prioritizing sustainability and environmental protection.

When the war ended two years later, 3,500 people lived in Mitchelville.

ON SACRED GROUND

Historic Mitchelville Freedom Park offers hope and inspiration for its visitors.

By Robin Sutton Anders

Even before the site of America's first self-governing community of formerly enslaved people was established as Historic Mitchelville Freedom Park, Cora Miller knew the land was sacred. "I found a tranquil place near the water, and I would go there and relax," she remembers. "I would get so emotional without knowing why."

At the time, Miller was a storyteller who shared the experiences of Harriet Tubman. "Only later did I learn that Harriet Tubman was right here in Mitchelville, walking on the same ground we're walking on." Miller learned Tubman was a spy for the Union Army during the Civil War. Serving as a nurse and mending clothes for Confederate soldiers, Tubman discovered where their ammunition and food supply was. "They couldn't figure out who in the dickens was telling on them," says Miller.

Today, where Beach City Road gives way to wooded walking trails and peaceful wetlands, Miller embodies Tubman and gives tours to the park's visitors. "It's like her spirit just takes over me," she says. "My grandmother used to say, you better know where you've been to know where you're going. I love helping people understand this history."

THE RHYTHM OF GULLAH

Singer-songwriter Latrese Bush and founder of Hilton Head Island’s Fish and Grits Music Festival was 17 years old when she fully grasped the magic of her small-town Bluffton childhood. “I was a freshman at the University of Georgia, and I felt like a fish out of water,” she says. “At the time, Bluffton had about a thousand people in its town limits, and I was trying my best to survive a school population of 30,000.”

One day, one of Bush’s professors gave a lecture that changed her life. “He began to describe a beautiful culture on the coast of South Carolina and Georgia that still practiced the same crafts and cooked the same foods as their African ancestors. And then he said, ‘They have a language, and their language has rules, and they’re called Gullah.’”

“That sentence changed how I looked at myself, and why I ultimately wanted to start the festival,” she says. “I felt so much pride. I went to him after class, and I said, ‘I am Gullah Geechee.’ And he looked me in the eye and said, ‘You come from a beautiful people.’”

As a child, Bush took so many things about her Gullah culture for granted. “I thought everybody walked out their back door to their garden and picked fresh tomatoes, collards, corn and squash for dinner,” she says.

Bush assumed everybody had a river where they could catch whiting, blue crab and fresh shrimp. She didn’t know it was unusual to live on the same land as her aunts and uncles and grandparents and cousins — to go outside and play a pick-up game of baseball or basketball with ready-made teammates. She thought everybody went to church and sang spirituals and clapped the Afro syncopation beat — the backbone of jazz, blues and gospel music that ties back to west Africa.

Now a professional artist, Bush displays an energetic style filled with rhythm. “It is a spirit of the Gullah Geechee,” she says. That spirit, shared through music, food and dance, is what Bush wants others to experience through the Fish and Grits Music Festival. “I love to collaborate with other people and to make people happy, and that’s what this festival is all about. It is a love letter to my community and a thank you note to my culture.”

Mark your calendar for the first Saturday in October for the annual Lowcountry Fish and Grits Music Festival, held in Lowcountry Celebration Park.

“I have traveled all over the world, and there is no place like home. More than anything else, I would rather have a plate of fish and grits surrounded by my family and community.”

– LATRESE BUSH, SINGER-SONGWRITER

ECOTOURISM: PRESERVE AND PROTECT

By Eleanor Spicer Rice

For Hilton Head Islanders, Charles Fraser is a legend. But for councilman David Ames, he was also a friend — one of those friends with whom you share an unbreakable bond. In their case, it was a love of nature. “I think in many ways Charles saw nature as almost a spiritual force,” Ames says.

This was the early 50s, and Fraser, the forward-thinking developer, envisioned more than the typical beach destination for Hilton Head Island. “He’d driven up and down the east coast surveying all the coastal developments and realized the destruction that had occurred by the typical oceanfront construction,” says Ames.

As Fraser thought about how to develop Sea Pines, the island’s first planned community, he took an unconventional approach. Covenants and deed restrictions protected the environment. Instead of homes and structures on the beach, they were built away from the oceanfront, designed to blend in with the pine forest and create harmony with nature. And trees — not highway engineers — dictate the natural curvature of the road.

“Fraser understood that the birds and the bees and the subtropical vegetation all had a place in this special environment,” Ames says. “He believed it was our job to preserve and protect that environment for future generations.”

Ames points to Harbour Town as a lasting example of Fraser’s belief that nature isn’t just restorative as a backdrop for peaceful exploration; it’s also a space for making memories. “He created Harbour Town because he understood that people have a desire to gather.”

The Town of Hilton Head Island continues to be inspired by Fraser’s vision. To protect the habitat and cultural resources, land is preserved for green spaces, parks and environmental protection.

Hilton Head Island Land Trust holds 300 acres, which includes Whooping Crane Pond Conservancy, Cypress Conservancy, Northridge Conservancy tracts and Museum Street Conservancy District.

The Visitor & Convention Bureau recognizes that everyone plays a role in the island’s sustainability and conservation efforts. To that end, visitors and residents are invited to make the Hilton Head Island Promise, committing to protect and preserve the island’s delicate ecosystem, leaving behind nothing but their footprints.

“Man is a steward of the land. We should preserve, protect it. We have a great opportunity, and we live in a magnificently beautiful place.”

NATURAL HARMONY

On a mission to protect Hilton Head Island's ancient and beloved sea turtle

By Robin Sutton Anders

Amber Kuehn was “changed forever” the day she first encountered a sea turtle 16 miles offshore from Hilton Head Harbor. Working as a divemaster, Kuehn was diving down to retrieve an anchor when she spotted a large shadow in the depths of the ocean. “It was graceful in its element, it looked like a bird flying in slow motion,” she remembers. As the sea turtle swam straight toward her, she rolled back on her heels. “I laid on the ocean floor while the turtle hovered overhead like a spacecraft,” Kuehn says. “Talk about impressed!”

Each summer, sea turtles return to the island's sandy shores, lay their eggs and go back to their ocean home. Loggerhead turtles, an endangered species, are the most common turtle to nest on the beaches of Hilton Head Island.

As director of Hilton Head Island's entirely volunteer 18-member Sea Turtle Patrol, Kuehn is on a mission to protect and conserve sea turtles so these ancient creatures can continue to inspire the next generation.

“It's important to do things like fill holes in the sand so sea turtle hatchlings don't get trapped on their way to the ocean,” she says. Volunteers help flatten sand structures and pick up litter nightly so the turtles have a clear path. Sea Turtle Patrol also hosts educational, island-wide “Turtle Talks” for residents and visitors. Meanwhile, Kuehn's Sea Turtle Patrol has been trained and is permitted by the state to identify, mark and monitor nests. Through “nest dedications,” the Sea Turtle Patrol offers opportunities to sponsor a nest in exchange for updates on its hatchlings as they grow and set off on their journey to the sea.

ISLAND SUSTAINABILITY Join us in protecting and preserving Hilton Head Island's environment and beauty for generations to come.

Use red-beamed flashlights, sold at hardware stores, for nighttime beach strolls. You can also download a smartphone app, such as jLight, to turn your phone screen into a red flashlight.

Make it easier for sea turtles and their hatchlings to navigate the shoreline by flattening your sandcastles and filling in any holes you dug when you're done with your day at the beach.

Turn off outside lights of beachfront residences from dusk till dawn, and cover interior lights (close drapes or shutters) that can be seen from the beach.

Enjoy discovering sea life like sand dollars, starfish and hermit crabs, but please leave these coastal creatures undisturbed in their natural habitat.

Leave only footprints. Throw away your trash. Obstacles like broken beach chairs and sand buckets can prevent turtles from reaching their destination.

Please stay on the path. Walking on our beautiful sand dunes can damage or destroy the sea oats and other flora keeping our dunes from washing away.

Stop by the Sharing Shack to find the missing tool to complete your family sandcastle – and to recycle your beach toys at the end of your vacation.

Maintain your distance from wildlife, including dolphins, sea turtle nests and hatchlings.

PEARL OF THE SEA

The mighty oyster's impact on Hilton Head Island

By Laura Lee

Fried on a po'boy or enjoyed straight from the shell — nothing gives you a taste of the sea like a freshly shucked oyster.

"Hilton Head Island oysters are especially tasty," says Andrew Carmines, owner of Shell Ring Oyster Company and president of Hudson's Seafood House on the Docks.

"We have this perfect scenario of big changes in the tide, salty water, and a healthy amount of plankton," Carmines explains. "I love to eat oysters on the half shell, but our steamed oysters — an ode to the oyster roast — and our chargrilled oysters are really popular, as well."

Oysters are not just here for our culinary delight; they are vital to the local ecosystem.

Hudson's Seafood House on the Docks, along with more than a dozen other Hilton Head Island restaurants, has joined forces with Outside Foundation on the Oyster Recycling and Reef Building Initiative. Since the program's inception in 2018, more than 100 tons of oyster shells have been collected and recycled.

When a male and female oyster reproduce, the larvae must attach to a hard surface. Recycled shells provide the ideal home for a new generation of oysters, called spat.

"The oyster reefs do a lot more than build the population of oysters for harvesting," says Mike Overton, Outside Foundation board member and CEO of Outside Brands. "Oyster reefs are effective in protecting our salt marshes."

According to Overton, South Carolina's salt marshes are the largest breeding ground in North America. Some 500,000 acres provide a home for a rich variety of fish and bird species.

Hudson's recycles many of its own shells on site, while tons of other shells in the area are discarded at Coastal Discovery Museum at Honey Horn on a designated spot on their 68-acre property. Once the oyster shells are cleaned and inspected by the South Carolina Department of Natural Resources, they are ready to go back into the water. Volunteers place the shells in netted bags and go out at low tide to build reefs — visitors are even invited to participate.

Coastal Discovery Museum President and CEO, Rex Garniewicz, says the initiative aligns with their mission. "We really want to connect people with the environment. We want to be a fun place for people to walk our trails, interact with our animals and see oysters growing in our marsh."

There, you can also see first-hand the benefits of a salt marsh — and learn about how everyday actions can make a difference. "Oyster shell recycling is one small thing we can do to protect this beautiful Lowcountry island that we love," Garniewicz says.

Carmines praises the Coastal Discovery Museum and the Outside Foundation for being proactive in replenishing oyster beds.

"We want to keep our Port Royal Sound watershed pristine and sustainable," he says. "When we do that, we're all able to enjoy the bountiful resources of our island."

Hilton Head Island's Eastern oysters are harvested through fall and winter months.

Surrounded by saltwater, Eastern oysters are prized for their briny flavor.

A NEW LIFE FOR OYSTER SHELLS

More than a dozen Hilton Head Island restaurants collect and save oyster shells.

The shells are sun-bleached for three to six months to rid them of bacteria and contaminants.

They're put in mesh bags, which stop the shells from breaking down, and then placed in tidal creeks and adjacent to salt marshes. A typical reef consists of 300 to 400 bags.

Recycled shells provide a home for the next generation of oysters. Hilton Head Island's largest reef build to date is along the 18th fairway of the iconic Harbour Town Golf Links.

One mature oyster filters about 2.5 gallons of water an hour. Not only that, but oyster reefs provide a critical habitat for juvenile fish, shrimp and crabs. They also create "living shorelines," protecting the coast from erosion. Here's what we're doing to replenish this vital species.

While all oysters on the East Coast — from Florida all the way up to Maine — are part of the same species, Atlantic oysters look and taste differently depending upon their specific location.

LOCAL VIEW WITH SERG CHEF TONY ARCURI

As co-founder of the island's SERG restaurant group that started Giuseppi's Pizza & Pasta House in 1984, Tony Acuri knows what it means to be the island's "local neighborhood pizza shop." We asked him to share the secret to great pizza.

As a Pittsburgh native, did you eat a lot of pizza growing up?

There was a neighborhood pizza shop on every corner — Mineo's, Aiello's, Vincent's, Beto's — I could go on and on. At Giuseppi's, our menu is influenced by where we grew up. Not only was the pizza great, they usually had very good hot hoagies, as well. That is what we tried to bring to Hilton Head Island 40 years ago.

What makes Giuseppi's a favorite?

Of course, using the very best ingredients. Our pizzas are not too thick and not too thin. Here's a little secret that's not on our menu: Ask for a thin NY style, and you will get it!

Is it true you invented the Weggie?

Yes, and it's our number one sandwich! I suggest the "Original": ham and pepperoni, provolone, mozzarella, lettuce, tomato, onion and our homemade ranch sauce.

How are you involved with the community?

Another reason Giuseppi's is a favorite is that we are big proponents of giving back to our community. Of course, having the Lowcountry's best staff and great facilities go a long way, too.

How have you achieved "local pizza shop" status?

We know our guests on a first-name basis. Everyone on Hilton Head Island knows and loves Jim Loniero, and in Bluffton, the same goes for Lori Taylor. Their friendliness and service, day-in and day-out, are second to none.

“Here’s a little secret that’s not on our menu: Ask for a thin NY style, and you will get it!”

Italy Meets Lowcountry

The elegant simplicity of southern Italian cuisine meets Lowcountry hospitality at Nunzio Restaurant + Bar. Chef and owner Nunzio Patruno hails from Puglia, on Italy's Adriatic coast; his creative flair and embrace of quality and the regional bounty shines throughout the menu.

"The simplicity of Italian food comes from letting ingredients and flavors stand out," says Chef Nunzio. "In the Lowcountry, there's lots of pride in local ingredients and how they're prepared."

Traditional Italian dishes and desserts make use of what's in season. The antipasti stand out, from the delicate grilled Spanish octopus with Sardinian farro to Polpette di Nonna Angelina — Mamma Angelina's Pugliese style meatballs floating in tomato sauce. One constant is wine, for what is Italian food without it? Nunzio's impressive wine cellar represents Italy and other winemaking regions around the world.

A warm, casual atmosphere prevails, from the bar and daily happy hour to early dining offerings. Nunzio Restaurant + Bar can host any special occasion, from a formal wine dinner to a wedding rehearsal or shower luncheon. Gift cards make it easy to treat family or friends to this gem on the Hilton Head Island dining scene.

CULTURAL DISPLAY

Natalie Harvey, director of Cultural Affairs for the Town of Hilton Head Island, shows off some of her favorite art — and shares what each piece reveals about the Island’s vibrance and diversity.

Natalie Harvey in Shelter Cove with Liquid Sunshine by Michael Alfano

Transcendence, Corrina Sephora

From a simple rowboat to a soaring bird, this forged, fabricated and recycled steel sculpture along the Shelter Cove Sculpture Trail celebrates nature on Hilton Head Island. “I love its scale; when you come across it, you’re not expecting to see it,” says Harvey. “Every time, I notice something different.”

Setting Sun, Tom Holmes

This sculpture by the playground in Lowcountry Celebration Park reminds its viewers that the idea of a setting sun is a creation of the mind — it only appears to rise and set because of the Earth’s rotation. Frozen in time, this depiction of the sun encourages us to reflect on our environment.

Shrimp Trawler Captain Dave, Amiri Farris

When it was proposed in 1969, the industrial petrochemical plant would have ruined Bluffton’s fishing, shrimping and oystering industry. This mural at the Rowing & Sailing Center at Squire Pope Community Park (133 Squire Pope Road) pays homage to a small coalition of Islanders, including Charles Fraser, who sailed to Washington, DC to put a stop to it. “In this park, kids learn how to fish and charter kayaks,” Harvey says. “It’s a great place to tell the story.”

Family, Jonathan Bowling

This family of horses just off of William Hilton Parkway (662 William Hilton Parkway) was strategically placed in a neighborhood historically owned by Gullah families. “Most would have had a Carolina Marsh Tacky horse, native to South Carolina,” Harvey explains. “The sculptor uses a lot of recycled metal farm equipment that young viewers have fun identifying when they get up close.”

HILTON HEAD ISLAND BEACH AND BIKE MAP

ON TWO WHEELS

Hilton Head Island is a wonderland for bicyclists — even for those who haven't been on a bike in years.

By Linda Lanier

The island received the Gold Level Bicycle Friendly Community designation by the League of American Bicyclists, and with over 60 miles of dedicated leisure pathways and hard-packed sand beaches, spending time on two wheels is a breeze.

Here are just a couple of the scenic routes you can take.

BEACH RIDES AT LOW TIDE

For salty breezes

Start at Coligny Beach Park, get on the beach, turn left and ride on the beach towards the north end of the island. A good spot to turn around is just before the “folly” at Burkes Beach (Beach Marker 9.8), about five miles up the beach. Enjoy the wind on your face and the sounds of the breaking waves — memories that will stay with you long after you’ve returned home.

SHELTER COVE COMMUNITY PARK TO HISTORIC MITCHELVILLE FREEDOM PARK

For a glimpse of island history

A pleasant afternoon ride begins at Shelter Cove Community Park. Enjoy lunch at one of the restaurants overlooking Broad Creek, then head north on the pathway for about two miles. Stop at the historic Zion Chapel of Ease and the Baynard Mausoleum, at the intersection of Mathews Drive (Mile Marker 6.0) and William Hilton Parkway. The eternal resting place of four Revolutionary War patriots, Baynard Mausoleum is the oldest structure on the island. Cross the William Hilton Parkway crosswalk at the traffic signal and then continue north on the William Hilton Parkway pathway. At Dillon Road, turn right, ride a couple of miles, then turn right on the Beach City Road pathway to the Historic Mitchelville Freedom Park on Port Royal Sound. Situated among the mossy live oaks and palmettos, learn the history of the first self-governing town of formerly enslaved people in America, dating back to the Civil War.

Bike Repair Stations are located at: Chaplin Community Park, Coligny Beach Park, Folly Field Beach Park and at Kroger’s Shelter Cove Towne Centre.

Challenge yourself: How long can you leave your car parked for your vacation? Map out a bike route wherever possible — it's good for our environment, and your health. Win-win!

LOWCOUNTRY CELEBRATION PARK

94 Pope Ave.

With a ship-themed playground, this is sure to be a kid-favorite. Explore walking trails, exercise stations and The Sandbox Interactive Children's Museum — just a block from Coligny Beach access.

BIKING TIPS ON HILTON HEAD ISLAND

Safety first, pictures later!

- Obey all traffic signals and pathway markings, including stop signs.
- Yield to pedestrians on pathways.
- When biking at night, wear light-colored clothing and carry a flashlight. Bicycles must have a red rear reflector and a headlight.
- Ride single file and keep a safe distance from other bicyclists.
- When biking on the beach, check the tides and be sure to bike during low tide. Avoid a “folly” — a point on the beach that may not be passable at high tide on foot or by bike.
- For more information on places to explore by bike, visit culturehhi.org/cultural-trail-map.

CATCH OF THE DAY

By Linda Lanier

As a Lowcountry local, I've enjoyed fresh shrimp from our waters in a myriad of ways — fried, boiled, steamed, with grits, with gravy; for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

But I had never set foot on a shrimp boat until a sunny Saturday morning when I was welcomed aboard the Tammy Jane at the Harbour Town Marina in The Sea Pines Resort. A small, commercial shrimping vessel, the 45-foot boat was given a second life by Vagabond Cruise and charged with taking visitors out on shrimping expeditions into the waters of Calibogue Sound.

My friend Kathy, an Indiana native, had also never been on a shrimp boat. She was as happy as I was to be out on the water on this beautiful day, and our captain, Spike Ivory, and crew, Ian Deery and Chase Wildfeuer, told us what to expect.

Captain Spike introduced us to the basics of shrimping and explained how important the industry has been to the Hilton Head Island area for over a century. Ian and Chase took us through the process of lowering the tickler chain, which encourages the shrimp on the bottom to enter the net, and the turtle excluder device (TED) which keeps the turtles from being caught up in the nets.

Nets lowered, we trawled slowly through the sound enjoying the sun, the blue sky and the breeze as a few dolphins were sighted swimming alongside the boat. Our companions on this adventure, folks from Ohio and New Jersey with some little ones, laughed excitedly as Ian and Chase raised the nets and hauled our catch onto the deck.

Shrimpers call a successful catch a “money bag” and a catch that pulls in more sea creatures than shrimp a “dirty bag.” Our catch was somewhere in the middle, and after a quick close-up look of other Calibogue creatures, like a few lovely starfish, we swiftly returned them to their home in the water.

Captain Spike Ivory pours out the catch on the Tammy Jane.

As we returned to the dock under the famous Harbour Town red-and-white-striped lighthouse, Kathy and I, a little windswept and happy that we had a great crew to do the heavy lifting, agreed we would bring our friends and families along next time on this quintessential Hilton Head Island adventure.

HISTORY IN THE PLAYING

Island golf courses share a rich legacy.

By Linda Lanier

Golf is, of course, a game of skill and numbers — scores and yards, rankings and ratings. On Hilton Head Island, the figures go beyond pencil marks on a scorecard. Here, statistics signify a sense of history, woven into the fabric of some of America's most historic courses.

Like the 425-year-old oak tree — perhaps the oldest on the island — observing putts from the 15th green of the Arthur Hills course in Palmetto Dunes. Or the 92-foot-tall Hilton Head Rear Range Lighthouse, which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Before it stood watch over Palmetto Dunes golfers, it guided ships into Port Royal Sound and served as the site for Camp McDougal, a World War II Marine training station for anti-aircraft units.

Two decades earlier, Port Royal housed about 30,000 Union troops and tradespeople. Today, the site is home to two courses that wind their way through lush palmettos and oaks of the old Civil War garrison. On the ninth and 10th holes of the Robber's Row course, golfers today play on the site of the village's main street, where saloons, restaurants and stores served the town.

One of the island's original courses, the Barony Course, opened for play in 1969 — more than 200 years after the first golf balls and clubs arrived in South Carolina. In 1739, the equipment was shipped from Leith in Scotland to Scottish merchants and planters in Charleston. These early golfers played with a “featherie ball” handcrafted of cowhide and stuffed with goose feathers, which would occasionally explode on impact.

“There are so many things that make this a special place,” says Davis Love III, a five-time winner of the RBC Heritage Presented by Boeing. The elevated PGA TOUR event is played each April at Harbour Town in The Sea Pines Resort.

One of the crown jewels of Hilton Head Island golf, the Pete Dye- and Jack Nicklaus-designed Harbour Town Golf Links has played host to most of the game's greats, including the 2023 champion, Matt Fitzpatrick, who attended the RBC Heritage as a child.

Harbour Town Golf Links is carved out of the sandy soil, through the palmettos, pines and oaks, with the famous 18th running along the Calibogue Sound. The public links course offers a challenge to scratch — and the not-so-scratch — golfers.

Whether you're a novice or a professional, the rich heritage of Hilton Head Island golf invites you to make your own history on these prestigious courses. With 23 courses on Hilton Head Island, rated among the “best of” American golf, there's a great experience to match every skill level.

A Joy to Play

“This course was a joy to play” is the common refrain from golfers finishing their round at Hilton Head National Golf Club. Located a mile west of the island bridges, this gem has been heralded for more than 30 years as the best consistently conditioned layout in the Lowcountry. Golf Advisor routinely lists it among the Top 15 courses in South Carolina.

Hall of Famer Gary Player and course architecture award winner Bobby Weed used their distinctive design philosophies in ways that make every club in your bag important. But, as golfers will tell you, it’s a course that’s challenging yet not punishing.

The course boasts immaculately groomed TifEagle Ultra greens that run fast and true. The opening holes by Weed offer several strategic risk-reward challenges. The Signature 6th, a par 4, has bordered its entire fairway by a treacherously close lagoon on the right with dangerous pot bunkers on the left. The back nine is tighter and rewards players with a good short game. Most memorable for many, however, is the abundance of wildlife and pristine natural views. # A LEGEND ON AND OFF THE COURT

By Eleanor Spicer Rice

The pro you know as a former world No. 1 player and Wimbledon champion — and for his iconic white and green Adidas shoe — is also legendary for his philanthropic work around the island. That list is just as long as his tennis accomplishments. Smith served on the board of the Heritage Classic Foundation for 15 years, a decade of which he worked on their Charities committee to advance 85 island nonprofits.

He and his wife, Margie, have also been involved with the Boys and Girls Club for more than 30 years. “We think it’s very important for working parents to be able to drop their kids off at a place where there are athletic activities, but also tutoring that helps children stay up to speed with their school work, so that when they graduate to the next class, they’re on the same level as their peers,” he says.

Smith appreciates Hilton Head Island’s commitment to recreation facilities of all kinds. “The city council has done a good job of buying land and preserving it for parks. We have tennis and pickleball. It’s important to listen to the needs and desires of people who live on the island. My philosophy is, you want people to get out and move around — it doesn’t really matter what they play.”

Still, tennis is without a doubt Smith’s favorite sport — “it’s been my life,” he adds. And thanks to Smith, who’s been associated with the island since the 70s, when developer Charles Fraser hired him as the touring pro for The Sea Pines Resort, it’s part of Hilton Head Island’s DNA. Today, the area is home to more than 300 courts, plus tennis academies and clinics for all ages and skill levels, taught by some of the best instructors in the game.

PICKLEBALL, ANYONE?

Learn to play the country's fastest-growing sport.

This lively game — with an equally fun name — combines tennis, badminton and ping-pong. It's a fast-paced game, with an underhand serve, played on a smaller court. Pickleball is the great uniter, says nationally ranked tennis and pickleball player Sarah Ansbury, touring pro at Palmetto Dunes Tennis & Pickleball Center. "A lot of people are passionate about this sport and have a drive to improve and keep growing. You have people from all different backgrounds coming together."

HOW DID IT START?

Pickleball was invented more than 50 years ago by three dads hoping to entertain their kids on summer vacation in Bainbridge Island, Washington. Its name is a reference to the non-starters — those leftover rowers who would race for fun in local "pickle boat" crew competitions. Before long, the sport caught on in all 50 states.

WHAT DO YOU NEED?

Pickleball uses paddles that are lightweight and easy to swing. The ball is also different from a tennis ball. It's plastic, perforated and about the size of a softball. A pickleball moves about one-third the speed of a tennis ball.

HOW DO YOU PLAY?

Pickleball serves travel diagonally cross-court. Like tennis, the ball must bounce once after the serve before it can be returned. When you score a point, you continue to serve. Games go to 11 points and must be won by two points.

Did you pick up a pickleball paddle while visiting the island? Show us your photos by tagging #LowcountryLife.

BREATH OF FRESH AIR

By Laura Lee

Pennsylvania resident Lisa Colver was staying in her second home on Hilton Head Island when she happened to walk past Pure Salt Studios. “I’m a homeopathic person and immediately loved the vibe,” says Colver. Intrigued, she and a friend booked an appointment for their first halotherapy treatment.

Inside the Himalayan pink salt room, ergonomic massage chairs and meditative music gave them an immediate sense of calm. Closing their eyes, they tuned out the world and breathed in the salt air. “I left feeling so much better and didn’t even realize how much I needed it.”

Colver was hooked. Over the years, she made an appointment each time she vacationed on Hilton Head Island. Then in January of 2022, she had the opportunity to purchase Pure Salt Studios and happily saw it as an excuse to visit Hilton Head Island even more.

“Besides relaxation, there are so many health benefits,” says Colver. “Halotherapy is great for anything bronchio-related — it helps relieve sinus infections, allergies or asthma. It’s also wonderful for the skin.”

Colver loves introducing visitors to salt therapy and welcomes children and groups. “We really try to offer everyone an exclusive spa experience that’s a little new and different from what they’ve tried before.”

Hilton Head Island offers a range of state-of-the-art spas like Pure Salt Studios, from independent boutique experiences to full-service resort facilities to awaken your senses and pamper you from head to toe.

OWNER OF BINYA

A TINY SHOP TELLS A BIG STORY

About 5 miles west of the ocean, tucked under the trees on Spanish Wells Road, Binya is a dream-come-true for the shop's owner, Lola Campbell.

A sixth-generation Gullah, native islander and corporate attorney, Campbell returned home to Hilton Head Island during the pandemic with a mission. “I'd always wanted to do something to promote and preserve our family's Gullah heritage,” she says.

From gourmet seasonings and candles to colorful art and sweetgrass baskets, every item in Binya — the name signifying “been there” in the Gullah language — tells a story. Shoppers find Lola's own “Gone Gullah” product line, including apparel, home décor and accessories.

Campbell and her family members are on hand to recommend a book or a specialty product from local vendors, like Four Seasons Apothecary, 7th and Palm, Little Fish Boateak, Gourmet Warehouse or Cottonwood Soap.

Campbell opened the shop near her parents' popular farm stand and across the street from her grandparents' home. “The location is so important. Customers start talking to me, my mom or my sister, and they see the land where our family's been for generations. It gives them a connection to the Gullah culture.”

IN HER BAG

Campbell shares some of her favorite Lowcountry shops.

For jewelry: Birdie James

“Locally owned and operated, this shop has unique jewelry choices, including Hilton Head Island's own Selina King Jewelry.”

For gifts: Bluffton General Store

“Here, you'll find great coastal and Lowcountry-inspired gift choices.”

For home décor: Pyramids

“You'll find beautiful home décor for every room in your house — bed, bath and kitchen.”

ENCHANTED

Bluffton beckons visitors with its Southern hospitality and charm.

By Laura Lee

Arrive in the heart of Old Town Bluffton, and you'll see why so many magazines have named it the best town in the South.

But the charm of Bluffton lies not just in what is seen in its historic architecture overlooking the May River and Spanish moss-laced live oak and palmetto palm trees. Glen Umberger, historic preservationist, believes its true charm rests just below the surface. "Founded as a summer resort in 1825, Bluffton's very soul has survived wars, famine, reconstruction, periods of commercial successes and declines, and nature's wrath."

Bluffton has been a popular destination since the early 1800s, when rice and cotton planters found respite from the heat on the breezy bluffs of the May River. Most of the town was burned down by the Union Army in 1863 during the Civil War, but two churches and 15 houses survived the fire (eight of which remain standing).

Today, visitors find a mix of antebellum homes alongside trendy shops, upscale eateries and luxury accommodations. Says Umberger, "Bluffton's diverse stories remain today to be discovered by the curious traveler seeking a place that appreciates its past while planning for a greater future."

THE SQUIRE POPE CARRIAGE HOUSE
CONNECTS BLUFFTON'S HISTORY WITH ITS FUTURE.

The Pope family left Bluffton during the Civil War and never returned. Though their main house was destroyed during the Burning of Bluffton, the original 1850s carriage house remained. Its perch overlooking the May River and adjacent to the greenspace of Wright Family Park adds to its prominence in Historic Old Town Bluffton.

True to its mission to identify and sustain centuries-old structures, the Town of Bluffton acquired the carriage house in 2017. A team of artisans, engineers and builders has worked to lift the home from a state of disrepair and are working to restore it to its original 1850s splendor, using original materials where possible. When complete in 2024, the Squire Pope Carriage House will serve as Bluffton's Official Welcome Center.

ON ISLAND TIME

Daufuskie Island transports travelers to a simpler time.

By Laura Lee

Daufuskie Island is just a few miles from Hilton Head Island, but nestled between river marshes and the Calibogue Sound, it feels a world away. You can only access the island by boat; step off the ferry or water taxi, and you'll find yourself in another place, in another time.

Here, there's plenty to see and do — and it's all within walking distance. Explore historic churches, a haunted lighthouse and whimsical art galleries, Lowcountry restaurants and a rum distillery. Cars are restricted, so lace up your walking shoes, rent a golf cart or bike and set out on a day of discovery.

LOWCOUNTRY LIVING

Reasons to make island life your everyday reality

By Linda Lanier

A community of entrepreneurs call the island home — and they're not the only ones. Read on for great reasons to make island life your everyday reality.

THE ISLAND LOOKS — AND FEELS — LIKE PARADISE.

Deep in the South Carolina Lowcountry, surrounded by the Atlantic Ocean and the rivers and sounds of the Intracoastal Waterway, Hilton Head Island is 45 miles from Savannah — and a world away from Old Man Winter. Leave your coats behind; the average yearly daytime temperature is 70 degrees. Just about 20 minutes from I-95, we're served by the Savannah/Hilton Head International Airport (SAV) and the Hilton Head Island Airport (HHH).

CHOOSE FROM TOP-RATED SCHOOLS.

For pre-K through high school, island residents can choose from five public schools and four private schools. At the college level, students attend the University of South Carolina via Beaufort, Hilton Head Island and Bluffton campuses, and Technical College of the Lowcountry. Learning doesn't stop at the university level. The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute and the World Affairs Council of Hilton Head keep islanders up to date on everything from current events to cooking.

STATE-OF-THE-ART HEALTH CARE IS WITHIN REACH.

Rest assured that the Hilton Head Hospital and physicians, dentists and health care providers of all specialties are on call to attend to all health needs.

YOU CAN MAKE AN IMPACT.

If you want to get involved with a church or nonprofit that makes a difference in your community, you have ample choices. Houses of worship of many religious beliefs are a vital part of life on the island, and philanthropic and civic groups are engaged in community events throughout the year.

RETIREMENT IS READY MADE.

When the time comes, you're in good company. Since 1960, fortunate islanders have retired to this sunny spot on the ocean for time to reconnect, relax and slow down time.

HOME COURSE ADVANTAGE.

Hilton Head Island offers a rich assortment of golf-oriented gated communities, many of which feature private clubs. Long Cove Club, Wexford, Port Royal and Sea Pines Country Club are on the island, while Colleton River, Berkeley Hall and Belfair are among the top golf gated communities in the Bluffton area.

Beautiful Beaufort Living

Discover one of Beaufort County's hidden gems, Dataw Island. This gated lifestyle community is located just outside of Historic Beaufort and is only 15 minutes to the region's most pristine beach, Hunting Island State Park.

Dataw Island residents embrace an active Lowcountry lifestyle. This way of life is enhanced by two 18-hole golf courses by Tom Fazio and Arthur Hills, Har-Tru tennis courts (designated by the USTA as an "Outstanding Tennis Facility"), championship croquet lawns, brand-new pickleball courts and indoor and outdoor pools, as well as kayak launches, bocce courts, art studio, a free library and a full-service marina.

The island's natural beauty is immaculately conserved in this master-planned community, where residents enjoy breathtaking views from around every corner. Home options range from one-story living to deepwater access and a private dock. Open daily; stop by to see Dataw Island for yourself. dataw.com • 843.838.3838
